Lifelong Learning Opportunities

The National University of Uzbekistan consistently organizes a diverse array of conferences, workshops, seminars, and training sessions aimed at fostering academic excellence and promoting knowledge exchange across various disciplines. These events provide invaluable opportunities for scholars, researchers, and practitioners to engage in meaningful dialogue, share innovative ideas, and collaborate on cutting-edge research initiatives. By inviting distinguished speakers from around the globe and incorporating interactive formats, the university ensures that participants not only gain insights into the latest developments in their fields but also develop practical skills applicable to real-world challenges. The commitment to continuous learning and professional development is evident through tailored programs that cater to the needs of students, faculty members, and industry professionals alike. Through these initiatives, the National University of Uzbekistan plays a pivotal role in advancing education and research while contributing significantly to the intellectual and cultural landscape of the region.

Foreign Professors are giving lectures sharing his experiences at National University of Uzbekistan

We are proud to employ approximately 500 international staff members, each bringing a wealth of diverse perspectives and experiences to our educational community. As part of our ongoing commitment to fostering an inclusive and enriching environment, our teachers have been actively sharing their insights and experiences regarding foreign lectures. This collaborative exchange not only enhances our collective knowledge but also enriches the learning experience for all students.

We encourage everyone to continue this valuable dialogue, as it is instrumental in broadening our understanding of global educational practices and cultural nuances. Let us embrace these unique perspectives to further enhance our teaching methodologies and deepen our engagement with diverse student populations. Also Professor Nakamura Katsuhiro is one of them, having lectures in Physics faculty.

"Empowering Futures Through Scholarships and Contests!"

Team of NUU is the winner of the Republican Intellectual Olympiad

At the National University of Uzbekistan, we host intellectually stimulating clubs such as Zakovat, which serve as vibrant platforms for academic engagement. Participation is open to a diverse group, including undergraduate and graduate students, doctoral candidates, faculty members, and alumni. This inclusive approach fosters a dynamic environment where participants can collaborate, exchange ideas, and enhance their intellectual pursuits. Consequently, the Zakovat team at the National University of Uzbekistan exemplifies a commitment to academic excellence and lifelong learning.

One notable initiative has resulted in a student receiving a prestigious scholarship, which not only recognizes their academic excellence but also underscores the university's commitment to fostering inclusive and equitable educational opportunities.

Furthermore, this initiative reflects a broader commitment to lifelong learning opportunities for all. In this way, the university not only enhances individual potential but also contributes to national development goals and global efforts toward achieving inclusive and equitable quality education.

STUDENT LIFE BEYOND CAMPUS

Chig'atoy Gruungi, a vibrant student club at the National University of Uzbekistan, fosters community engagement through contests and a weekly magazine focused on university life and social issues. By aligning their activities with Quality Education—they not only enhance learning experiences but also prepare students for life beyond university. The club emphasizes critical thinking, creativity, and collaboration, equipping members with essential skills for their future careers and active citizenship. We also actively have TedX REGARDING GLOBAL ISSUES.

Strengthening future leaders at SCHOOLS

Professor Abdurakhmanov didn't just lecture; he actively engaged the students in hands-on learning experiences, encouraging them to explore the natural environment and conduct soil analyses. Through field observations and scientific experiments, the students gained a newfound appreciation for the intricate interplay between soil composition, plant life, and ecosystem dynamics.

Psychological center was opened for the psychological training of junior specialists of the Armed Forces

By combining their respective strengths and resources, the university and the armed forces training center seek to develop innovative approaches to psychological assessment, resilience training, and mental health support for military personnel. Moreover, the partnership offers opportunities for faculty members and students to gain valuable experience in applied psychology and contribute to national defense efforts

Vocational Courses are Here!

Training includes “Analysis of the audience in Uzbekistan and Central Asia: identification of social networks, channels, types, languages and fake news among young people”, “The rights of users of social networks and their legal responsibility for spreading false news” and “What is Fake News Propaganda? How to talk to your audience about fake news. Selection of cases for use in training” and other similar topics.

This training aligns closely with several Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), particularly SDG 16: Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions and SDG 4: Quality Education. By enhancing the capacity of journalists and legal experts to verify facts and prevent the spread of misinformation, the event contributes to the promotion of peaceful and inclusive societies. The training supports the development of transparent and accountable institutions by ensuring that the public has access to accurate information, which is essential for informed decision-making and the protection of human rights.

Today, the students of the Sewing Training Center, with the support of their teachers, are making special bed sheets, beds, curtains for the student dormitory, as well as white robes for the teams of the Faculty of Biology, Chemistry and Physics.
